Current Main Research:

1) Experiment: Recently, I have examined the irrational phenomena (the context effects) of multi-attribute, multi-alternative decision making (e.g., the attraction, compromise, similarity, and phantom effect) based on the usual performance measures (selection rates, confidence ratings and decision time), the eye-fixations and the saccades, the mouse tracking method of process tracing, and the ERP.

2) Modeling: Connectionist (neural network) modeling of multi-alternative decision making.
